CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates) empowers abused and neglected children.

The organization recruits, trains and supports community volunteers who act as advocates in court on behalf of children.

The advocate role provides a friend for the child, ensures the child's best interests are supported and helps to secure a safe and permanent home. Each year, over 400 children in Johnson and Wyandotte Counties are served by the work of CASA child advocates. Together, these special individuals dedicate over 15,000 volunteer hours to ensure that the community's most vulnerable children are heard.
